Module Name: Legal Transactions in Private Law
Module Code	w.BA.XX.3RGPR-BL.XX
Module Description	Students are able to distinguish different legal transactions of private law and understand the key significance of contracts as legal instruments. They know the main principles and norms of contract law and are able to classify them according to the problem areas of business law. Students acquire the terminology and the methodological know-how to answer fundamental questions regarding the formation, effects, and termination of contracts within the scope of dealing with legal cases and do so in an effective and practically oriented manner. They recognize how general terms and conditions of contract law and legally regulated contracts types are interrelated and develop the ability to integrate their knowledge in the context of complex questions of business law.
